EVENTS

Rob Demonstrates at The Rectifying House.

When you eat at a restaurant, do you know where your meat comes from? Not just the farm, but from the animal? Last Friday, 25 restaurant diners at The Old Rectifying House, found out. And it was enjoyed by all.

Keen to encourage interest in local food and traditional butchery skills, in this first showcase, Rob demonstrated how, and where steaks come from., answered lots of questions on all aspects of meat production, butchery, and making the most of the prime and other more economical cuts. The steaks were prepared in front of the diners, then cooked to perfection by Head Chef, David Pegler. It was such a success, it will now be a regular event (please see our website).

With the current interest in food quality, taste and provenance, it seems the natural progression to demonstrate where traditional cuts come from and know more about what you are eating.

If you would like a demonstration for a group, a special dinner or lunch party or event, or to find out where and when Rob will be next, please contact us, or visit our website regularly for updates.

NEWS FROM THE FARM

NEWS FROM THE FARM

As a mixed farm we produce much of our own animal feed on the farm. The maize has been cut for feed, and the winter wheat has been sown. Hedges have been cut, at this time of year to reduce the risk of disturbance to wildlife. During this dry spell, ditches are being cleared to, hopefully, mitigate the chances of flooding later on.

The turkeys are coming along nicely, so we are almost ready for Christmas!

We hope you are, too. If we can help, let us know.
